Well; You all have me flummoxed. Who built and maintained the levee's; who is responsible for declaring a national emergency and releasing the funds to pay for services. I am non-plussed at the thought that the Feds have no responsibility here. Then a poor state like Mississippi gets nothing since they have almost no budget to begin with and have no recourse to the type and amount of supply and rescue equipment needed on that scale. So they get nothing I guess. They have no standing to recall the military rescue; they can't even call the coast guard; that is a federal service; so they sink I guess. Freakin' amazing.
