Over on the Joelist they are having a huge brou-ha-ha over Katrina just like we did. The emphasis is on a polar opposite leaning compared to what we saw here but it is actually a very good discussion. Interesting to see how others percieve this issue in the audio community; and how much importance they attach to it. Got me to think hey; if you love music and art, you cannot live or discuss those things in a vacum. What you believe must influence what you percieve.
