Colin. your sweet. In mature low margin industries some of the first guys to go are the engineers and technical people. It is happening in the domestic transformer lamination industry. Margins on the commodity grades of lams are so low... that you can't buy a new roll of TP for the outhouse. If you're at liberty to say.... what industry were you in? I love the dynamics of industry... both the technical dynamics and the financial dynamics. cheers,msl
