Subject: "Constantine" & "Phantom of the Opera"
Posted by mollecon on Tue, 01 Mar 2005 15:55:42 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Saw both in the movie theater this weekend. "Constantine" is entertaining, and that's about that - some nice special effects, but nothing revolutionary. And what's that with Keanu Reeves? His he doomed to play the same type of parts for the rest of his life? Look at the number of sci-fi/fantasy type flicks he's been in..."Phantom..." was OK - good music (if you like AL Webber), nice sets and all that, + a very pretty leading lady. But also very conventional, very much a theater piece put on screen. No competitor to "Moulin Rouge", to mention another musical of later years.