Ive been great,ive had a lightweight semester,so had time to read alot about audio,and look at producing subwoofers just locally.I do that too,try not to waste. We all use electric heaters here.I see heatpumps are being installed into new houses,its the installation costs which hurt. NZ is already marginal with power consumed vs produced! We had the 60s think big projects,but have done nothing since - it must be the 'now' thinking of the politicians.Mike.e
