from the whiner Mike:you've been ripping us off by taking our designs which we acquired legitimately and having phoney copies made of them and then representing them and hawking them as Peerless copies. I consider those actions in their totality tantamount to theft.I also acquired the design information legitimately. Matter of fact, I paid good money for it. Since it is no more your design than mine, your accusation of theft is a matter of your opinion.I am not hawking anything. I am not selling anything save the information that you are not the final word. The price for all this is: nothing, it is free.cheers,Douglas
