

---

Subject: Re: Ocean's Twelve

Posted by lon on Wed, 20 Apr 2005 03:58:49 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Thanks for the heads up on this one. I enjoyed the Oceans Eleven. The vhs has a special feature on the costuming detail-- not unusual for women's clothes but this was all about those great suits to capture the Vegas that used to be. I went there once. The movie is better. OTOH, I saw Maynard Ferguson and his 9 piece band live at a small high school near here. This small high school had a great concert hall-- totally unexpected for a small farm community. Plus their local Middle school band and HS band were the openers. When MF took the stage the school had actually put together a very good lighting cue sheet and the MF sound man knew how to run a board. He must not have lost his hearing yet-- as is the impression I get with board operators all the time: couldn't carry a tune to the audience on a wheel barrow. All in all a very good experience: something I decided to do at the last minute. When I think of when I went to school and the _nothing_ they had for young musicians and everything for the sports teams I could just puke.

---