New Jersey has a state financed health care plan for those below the poverty line. Geuss which members of those below the poverty line are most highly represented. No; not welfare mothers. The list of those who recieve state health benefits for the poor are in this order.Wal-Mart Employees= 549 families and their children lead the pack.Home Depot Employees=335 families and their children live below the poverty line and are supported by the state.Pathmark Grocery Stores Employees=318 familiesTarget Employees= 232 familiesWant to know where your taxes go; to the working families from Wal-Mart/Home Depot etc. It is a disgrace.
