Not that I disagree with your points. In fact for a guy who has been fighting a war to protect America. His last two moves seem contradictory at the least. But, I'm just raising a question here. Who are we, as Americans to decide who can and cant have nuclear facilities or weapons? We have plenty of them. I would think there are countries that see us as a threat to them. I don't see the :do as I say, not as I do: approach to policing the world.
