No one in particular just reflecting on things in general. But I would say that was a good honest reply. The only thing I would say is I dont see the confrontation angle; about what is there a confrontation when we discuss things like we do? I enjoyed your response here. And I dont recall seeing anyones personal beliefs challenged; just the reasons behind why we say things is the only thing I see.But I dont get the belittled part; if you are serious then how can anyone belittle you unless you let them? And by now the five or six people that post on this dungeon pretty much have each other figured out I would say.Now patronising and condescending; thats another story. That shows no respect for people and that cannot be abided.
