That there are some people who are aware of what constitutes our government here in America. So many are ignorant of how their government works and that definately puts a chill in the quality of their understanding and committment to Democracy.When people have wrong ideas about govt; thats when the bad guys win. It is so easy to confuse the mis-informed and manipulate the weak-minded in these issues. I believe thats how bush was re-elected. I think people still mis-understood the Iraq war as a war on terror rather than what it really was.Very sad. There should be classes for those of the confused persuasion.
