They will now quote from the ten-thousand blogs that disagree; they will produce endless irrelavant "Facts" that can't be validated except by themselves and most of all they will not give a damn one way or the other; they already got what they want.It's a culture of guys who think they are the smartest people in the room and everyone else is either hopelessly ignorant or they are doing easy work or they are arrogant if their arguments cannot be refuted. The word humble never entered their vocabulary. Those are the scary ones.
