The Neo-cons basically spelled out your entire scenario yrs before this even happened. While I would not touch the concept that they knew about the conspiritors; they were looking for something to promote the agenda against Iraq and no one will ever get me to believe otherwise. If you live long enough you know how people think.It will come out ten or twenty yrs from now when most of the architects are retired or dead.What do you think is going to happen after the next president takes office? Will they start to dismantle all this anti-American "President as King" theorising they rammed down our throats with the patriot act and the doctrine of forced democritizing of nations?
