Pipedreams had a rebroadcast of one of their shows on lastnight from the public radio here.I use the show regularly to listen to the speakers I'm toyingwith.But this particular show is, well it's _cool._It's a selection of pop tunes played on theater organs, the mostfamous of which (I guess) is The Mighty Wurlitzer. We thinm oforgan music often as weird, creepy, for funerals and of courseas a wedding march. The pure pleasure in this is being transported for instanceto a pizza restaurant in Texas (or Arizona) where the organ isfeatured as entertainment. Nowhere but on Pipedreams can you find this stuff.It's just about perfect for listening on a summer afternoon likethis.
