

---

Subject: Re: WBAI Remnants

Posted by lon on Mon, 20 Jun 2005 03:02:44 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

I didn't read this thread til just now. Though I've never had access to Pacifica radio as a Midwesterner, Gene Sculati sent me some of his shows on tape from his program called Unprovoked Attack. This to me was the epitome of what cool radio could be. He did music (rhythm and blues, punk, snippets of stuff) and he had a regular cast of players as well. Classic bits include The Jim Morrison Seance and interview with Richard Frank "The Man Of a Million Tunes" which included playing "I Was So Wasted" by Black Flag as an accordion solo. Where are they now?

---