I don't think Eminence will even make an Alpha 10 with a shorting ring. In fact, I asked them once a few years back if they would consider doing something similar, to make a high quality driver this size that had the same electro-mechanical parameters. It's a very useful driver for me, and I'd like to have an upgrade path. But Eminence flat out told me they weren't successful with their shorting rings, and soon after they abandoned the Magnum line.
