Just finished a Hagerman Clarinet to go with my Cornet

So far it doesn't sound much different than the passive with excellent ladder attenuator except much more dynamic. That's a good thing!

I really like these Lansing cases, especially as I don't have anywhere for woodworking except my rear deck and it rains every time I have a day off.

Building the Tubelab Simple SE showed me the utility of having many cheap DVMs for a hands-free way (thanks George) to test both channels at once and not poke around the high voltage

3 DVMs from Jameco and 3 sets of mini-grabbers, about $80. Worth it!

What's everyone else been doin'?
