yes, it's unfortunate, but most of these old organs are worth more dead than alive... I'm not familiar with this exact chassis, but I've bought a few Hammond organ amps on eBay- paid decent money for them, too. They make the best guitar amps! The iron on these organs is incredible for guitar amps... tube rectified...P-P 6X4's can't be beat, simple 12AX7 VA for front end. Since they're so large and most local markets are limited, and new Casio etc. keyboards do so much, the parts will no doubt sell for much more than the whole.
