I have the 2 subs I used in the cottage last year but stored them away because of their size and now having neighbors in my current townhouse.

As you can see, it's a tough room, just 12x15

No corner on the right but at least the bicycle helps with diffraction

I'm thinking about spending for some lower end 10" Dayton subs and building 1.5 cu ft boxes, then running them just above the edge of audibility. That worked well with the big subs in the cottage

I just have to resist the temptation to TURN IT UP for the Organ Symphony
