I want the brutal honesty even if I can't or won't follow all of your ideas. I've got some problems with the toe in as I'm pinched for space on the left side. Also not sure how it would help the center channel.

I like the idea of experimenting with the open cell foam. How about a sheet of foam over the horn area (or horn and port) How about the stuff that the Geddes disciples are using to stuff their horns with?

I obviously like the black version.
