I haven't remarked on a film lately because there hasn't been much ans so I've reverted to type and began watchingStar Trek dvds.But The Island was quite good. The production style looks like the high tech world of Minority Report. The story is a variation on the what if everyone had a clone themeand is peppered with lots of action effects as is typical of a Michael Bay film.I only get library lending copies of things so it's just mytime and not any rental dough. Scarlett Johansen is easy on the eyes. She and Jessica Alba must have been separated birth. I can never tell them apart.
