Subject: Changing connectors
Posted by audioaudio90 on Wed, 20 Oct 2010 19:26:18 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

OK, I could use a little help. My speakers are set up so you just push the stripped ends of the speaker wire into the jack. I'd like to modify them so the cables actually have connectors on the end that plug into the back of the speaker. My toddler keeps running over to the speakers and yanking the cables out (two speakers are in the middle of the room, because we have an open floor plan). It's getting pretty old having to twist the little copper strands in the cable back together so I can plug them back in to the speaker.

Yes, I'm working on keeping her away from the speakers   but I'd like to make things easier on myself in the meantime. It'd look nicer too.

TIA for any suggestions.