No problem Wayne. I do not want to take advantage of your generosity and will respect your wishes.

I am a budding hobbyist and simply enjoy reading yours and others (econowave, bill fitz) designs. There is no interest in a commercial effort on my part.

I specifically want to understand how to build horn loaded speakers and their crossovers. To help my learning, I purchased Woofer Tester Pro last spring mostly because of you liking that product and was impressed with your Vertical Null video, which showcased WTPro.

My interest in pi3 is for my son, who wants to make the boxes himself over Christmas break, again as a wood working project and have some great loudspeakers as a result.

I would be very happy to pay for your plans if that is an option. I have bought all of Bill Fitz plans and have only built his horn loaded 12 box (omni top 12) with peizos. The peizos don't work for me and I want to try your horn loaded box (pi8 or pi7). If you only want to send out a single plan, the pi8 is where I would likely start, as I all ready have Alpha 10s left over from an older bass reflex project. Again, I would be more than willing to pay for the plans.

Thanks for your consideration and time.
