Subject: Alternatives to Pandora?
Posted by GuitarStrings on Mon, 06 Dec 2010 01:00:36 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Hello All,

I normally end up using Pandora a lot while I'm on the internet. I love the way that the site can choose music that match or are close to what I like to listen to. Unfortunately, since I use it so much, the 60 hours 'free-listening' tends to get used up before the month is over and I have yet to find any online radiostations that work like Pandora.

The only one I know so far is called Jango, but it does a really poor job of selecting the type of music I like. It seems no matter what singer or song I make a station out of Justin Bieber, Miley Cyrus, and Selena Gomez are constantly picked to be the next song.

Just...no. Kudos to them for making a career singing but they do not even remotely match the type of music I like.

Are there any other radio sites that do a better job of finding songs that match up better?