

---

Subject: Re: More Expensive Is Always Better
Posted by AudioFred on Fri, 07 Jan 2011 13:27:29 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Manilyn wrote on Fri, 07 January 2011 02:08 That's really funny I think when anyone is too interested in something, it makes it hard for the opposite sex to understand and relate to. Unless, that person is really into the same thing. Then it could work out great and they could blow their eardrums together

Many of the audiophiles I know who have megabuck systems in a large dedicated room furnished with only one listening chair happen to be geeky bachelors. But other audiophiles I know who have big systems with enormous subwoofers occupying an entire wall, like Wayne P, are geeky married guys with drop-dead-gorgeous wives. So maybe there's hope for geeky guys with big systems and small tweeters

---