Here are a cpl pics of my progress. I have the box built and the baffle all cut and ready to go. I will install the insulation this week and then its just a wait til I can order the drivers. I made a screw up when I marked the two 1/2" holes for the tweeter and plugged the with dowels. Also my homemade circle jig has a low screw that scratched the face slightly. I filled it all with putty and flushed it all out. I will be using a hammer finish black paint on the box to match the rack it sits in so I am not to concerned about my mistakes. Live and learn eh?
