

---

Subject: Re: Hearing My Own Voice

Posted by RadioDinosaur on Mon, 21 Mar 2011 13:23:16 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Hearing your own voice does take some getting used to. Naturally, it will sound different from the outside than what you hear in your head. Also, depending on what equipment you were recording on. Lots of mics have compression and directional mics will make your voice sound crisper or could even deepen your voice. After some time you do get used to it.

---