I can't beleive it's really that little!

Smaller than a paperback.

Biggest news is, it sounds great! Only a few hours today but the character is as some of the most glowing reviews suggest: tight, clear, powerful bass; good tone (not sure it's got sticks on drumskins right); sweet highs. Just played "Live At Blues Alley" which can sound a little 'hot'; it was recorded on a DAT. Cassidys voice is never shrill.

I let it rip on 'Brothers In Arms', 'Money For Nothing', wowzers. It really drives those JBLs. I think it has 4 ohm output which accounts for the drop-off in power to 8 ohms speakers with an increase in damping and decrease in distortion.

I just hope I don't like it as much as my 2 DIY tube amps. That would suck! All that blood, sweat and treasure.
