Hi Excellent write ups. Not everyone will believe it and many will blow it off. The information regarding cable lengths vs gauge is good. It would seem to me that using any decent brand of wire (not the big $$ stuff) would be fine. I recall an article on the web a few years back, by some smart folk. They found that getting one of the 40 foot three wire white garden extension cords from Walmart and making 4 10 foot speaker cables from it was as good as the best they had in their system (costly wires) at the time. It blended well with much modern decor as well.
