OK I see how that answers my question but I am still lost lol. The 2pi crossover is simply a big black cap and a rolled up copper thing (I know technical terms =P) that are just hanging attached to the pertinent speaker wire. Am I supposed to glue these to a board and then do as you said? Also by the length of the speaker wire I am assuming you mount the binding posts in the center of the speaker box not at the bottom. Correct?
