Do you remember your first boombox? I remember that I was one of the last ones to get one because my parents nor I were able to afford one. After the first one, I had a few others especially when the prices came down and I had a real job.

I never thought of them again after I got my iPod. However, I just read that there are some new boomboxes that have in-built cameras. I can't imagine how does this work. Does anybody here have one?
