Hi Mladen, Your English is far better than my ability in any language you might normally use. As for spelling, I know lots of folk here that can't either. Welcome to the forum. I suspect you under rate you talent at diy. At least 95% of the population would never think to modify a player, much less do it and have it work. My passion is tubes. I love to design stuff. I have started to post links to some of my projects in the group buys section for now. I expect to add more in the near future as I get time to do it. I do the Oddwatt Audio Sponsored section as well. Everything there came first from a diy project and I'm happy to assist with diy builders. Again welcome to the forum
