Subject: Re: Da Vinci Code
Posted by Manualblock on Sat, 20 May 2006 12:29:12 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Not bad D. Good explanation. But by definition a belief is a persons opinion of what is right in the world. Thats the definition of Belief. If it was a fact it would be called a fact.So for whatever reason people go to war; it is still; whether religion or ethnic or language a political descision. If they could not justify war on religous grounds they would do it on ethnic grounds or as we did in Iraq for resource. There will always be a reason for war; religion is just a convienient name for the provocation. Right?In other words even if there were no religions there would still be war.