Hi, I seem to recall that there is some software out there that can re-do the output levels. Also cleans up stuff if needed. I don't recall the title or brand, but a google search should turn it up. I had a Turtle Beach Soundcard with software that would do that a few years ago. I needed some different features so it is history now.