Hi Everyone,

I'm looking to purchase a pair of second hand JBL 2225H speakers. This seems to be the best place for JBL advice as there are many knowledgeable JBL authorities here Does anyone have pictures of how they would look if they were all original? And how about pictures of them reconed with authentic JBL cones? There are so many aftermarket reconed JBLs out there that I want to be aware of what they look like and stay away.

Also any advice on purchasing used speakers? I probably won't be able to listen to them as I'll be buying gem over the net. I will ask the owner to push on the cone and feel for scratching/scrubbing of the voice coil. Also, how much difference does the it make to have both speakers have similar measured impedance across the terminals? Thanks for all the help in advance!

Cheers!
Joel
