As a feat of endurance, I think that Christian Bale losingweight for The Machinist was more of a challenge than how evermany burritos Clooney had to eat to gain 50 lbs. The Machinist shows Christian Bale as life-threateningly thin. And while watching it I wondered if it were some photographic trick. It wasn't. When asked about it in the "making of" portion of the dvd, Bale said, "I just stopped eating." Between these other things that I've mentioned, I also view some documentaries. "Paperclips" was extraordinary and moving. I mention this because I've actually seen it on the shelf at the vid store.
