
Subject: Re: how'd we get here (or where is this)?
Posted by grindstone on Sat, 31 Dec 2011 22:03:14 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Thanks, Wayne. I had actually reread 2/3 of that before I posted and finished the rest of both again now. You have been singularly clear and generous in communicating your approach and rationale in a way that lifts all boats--sincere thanks. And again I wasn't pointing at any one design or even set of choices--just thinking the parts and possibilities for the Type would be farther along in all this time (and maybe they are and I'm clueless). There's a zeitgeist-thing these years, still. Maybe you don't feel as much because you've been so consistently on your own path for so long. Zilch et al, even Earl a good ways back, lots of mindshare. It's like when everyone was running UL amps because that was the thing
