
Subject: Re: Learning an instrument helps in Math?
Posted by GuitarStrings on Sat, 07 Jan 2012 20:09:08 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I've heard the same before but I personally think that it depends on the person. When you play music, you can see that the development of a song is divided into various segments and music notes themselves require different rhythm and timing- I'm sure that if you are excellent in understanding such things, you'd be good at math too.

In any case, I'm horrible at math but decent at the guitar!
