

---

Subject: Re: LSAF 2012

Posted by AudioFred on Fri, 02 Mar 2012 16:13:58 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Danny Richie wrote on Sun, 26 February 2012 17:38Hey guys,

I just wanted to let everyone know that we are planning on being there for this years show... I think I will have some really cool new products there for this year. Dodd Audio will have some new products too... I'll also try to really get behind this show and try drive people to come. So it will be discussed in my forum at Audio Circle leading up to show time with pics information of new products etc.

Danny, I think it's great that you and Gary and friends will be returning. Your exhibits a couple of years ago were some of the best sounding I've heard at any show including the RMAF. Your participation will be helpful to me in convincing my Houston Audio Society friends it's worth the drive to Dallas.

I'm glad to see you plan to "get behind this show". The LSAF isn't anything like the big commercial shows, and most of us want it to retain it's character, but I still believe we need to increase the number visitors (and exhibitors) to achieve a critical mass. Your return is a great help in this direction.

The LSAF isn't a show that can buy ad space in Stereophile and TAS, and it's success depends on the exhibitors promoting it. I'm hoping all the other folks who plan to exhibit this year will start promoting the show as you plan to do, with discussions and pictures of the products they plan to bring posted on the various audio forums. With only two months to go we all need to start creating some excitement about this fun event.