Hello Wayne. There has been some discussion about the 3pi's Woofer / Horn Vertical Spacing over at avsforum.

I have read all of your technical papers about speaker design and all of your posts here at audioroundtable about the 3pi/4pi speakers over the past 2 years or so. I think I have a pretty solid grasp of your design choices and implementation. Could you please summarize why you chose the vertical driver spacing that you did for the 3pi speakers and did not space them closer. It would be great if you could clear things up for us all.

Cheers, Joe
