To tell the truth, that's the thing I like about Netflix the most - All the oddball tangents you can go on that you would probably never have thought of going otherwise. I check out about maybe 20% or 30% or the suggestions it makes, and a bunch of 'em turn out to be wonderful.

Netflix doesn't get the latest releases right away, but I can wait a month for most things. The variety of content is incredible, and I like their service for that reason alone. It's a good way to check out documentaries and television series too.
