You can't iron them? So that's what I did wrong.

I still have a Harmon Kardon high end recorder (back from when the HQ was in New York). Has everything, Dolby, B and C with HX Pro metal etc. I tried it out a while ago on some metal tapes and it is surprisingly good. But with the ease of making a CD of going to a drive directly, it is rather a moot point. I just got a 64gig thumb drive.... do you have any idea how much music you can stuff on it... even uncompressed it is huge.
