Subject: Re: Do you unplug everything?
Posted by Thermionic on Wed, 25 Jul 2012 10:36:42 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Yep, I've both owned and seen some that offered the replacement "insurance," especially Belkin's hi-end products (or rather they used to, they might not any more). But, you gotta have all your ducks in a row, unerringly, according to their policies. I can't say I blame 'em, because if you didn't have to have all your original sales receipts and ship the damaged stuff to them, people would be sabotaging things and sending them in to get new ones for free.

Thermionic