Subject: Re: Repair JBL 2226H cone
Posted by Maxjr on Sat, 25 Aug 2012 11:19:52 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

If you're buying another driver from the same seller, I would make sure they use adequate packaging/padding and insure it from loss and damage. When I purchased my JBLs, the seller screwed the driver to a half inch plywood larger than it's 15" diameter to protect it's face. He then bought solid styrofoam to pad all around the inside of the cardboard box. The drivers arrived perfectly and made the trip over the Pacific Ocean safely.