I've been really curious for a while about using Green Glue...

(For those who haven't heard of it - it's a viscoelastic damping compound that when you sandwich it between drywall panels will perform like 4-8 layers of drywall without taking up the space. Compared to making staggered-stud and double-walls, it's easy as heck to install. For soundproofing, it seems like pretty much gold.

Unfortunately, it's also priced like gold!

I've been curious how much you can skimp on it and get good results. Anyone tried it?
