My wife and I got free tickets to the Joe Bonamassa concert tonight. It took place in the same hall as the symphony so it was assigned seating. We were dead center right above stage height--best seats in the house. He put on an excellent show with minimal gear, lighting, and talking. It was all about the music. I highly recommend anyone go check him out if he's in the neighborhood as this was one of the better guitar concerts I've seen in a very long time.
