I found these two links helpful:

<https://www.smallbearelec.com/HowTos/DirectPCBoards/DirectPCBoards.htm>

<http://www.robotroom.com/PCB.html>

I found the last link a bit more helpful, but the ExpressPCB program he mentions reminds me of AutoCAD. You can play with it for twenty minutes and not have a single useable thing on the screen.

Each link uses a slightly different chemical bath for an etching solution. Anyone like one more than the other?
