That is a crazy idea for a center, and won't be happening here.

As for WAF and the screen size, my wife likes the big screen and would rather me spend time on other projects rather than taking a day to make a smaller screen.

The bass is nice and smooth. I am thinking about building a folded horn sub for the back of the room to kick in the low end a bit more.

The current set-up blends a lot better with the bass shakers in the seats, which cut-off at 50Hz.

Overall everyone that has seen a movie comments on how much clearer the voices are in the movies. One of my goals with this project.

Wayne, what is you opinion on the corner treatments, they are filled with mineral wool, I also have two panels on the wall and on the ceiling?
