Those 2pi towers look great.

Is there any difference in the crossover between the regular 2pi and the tower?

Where is the port located on the back of the tower (high, middle, low)?

The reason I ask about the port location, I'm considering towers for my four surrounds, concealed in tapering columns. I'd like to tilt the entire cabinet forward to to allow the port some breathing room through the sides of the columns.

I've got a big room and I like overkill!
