Subject: Re: What happened to standards for advertised power? Posted by AudioFred on Thu, 14 Mar 2013 15:09:23 GMT View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I've been seeing a new one lately that's used for powered speakers, mostly subwoofers. It is "FTC power", and the rating is more conservative than RMS power. Apparently it describes the continuous power that's available from the amp to drive the speaker.

